MURRAY EXTENDS MARTIAL LAW AREA

RUMORS THAT FREE BRIDGE BE CLOSED RILES ALFALFA BILL

TAKES ALL RESPONSIBILITY FOR ANY VIOLATION OF COURT ORDERS

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 27. (AP)—Advised that an effort may be made to halt free traffic across the Denison-Durant free bridge over Red River, Governor Murray today extended his military zone to put the entire structure under martial law.

Only the approach to the parallel toll bridge previously had been under military surveillance. The governor's new order extended the zone not only the length of the free bridge but also the concrete abutments on the Texas side.

Gov. Murray has taken the position that as Oklahoma and Texas joined in constructing the span this state has an interest in the entire structure.

"An effort has been made to close the bridge against traffic whatsoever," the order said. "The same is now open in obedience to an executive order, dated July 16. There are rumors of other attempts to close the bridge and approaches."

"In the passage of the federal road act provisions were expressly made that no tolls whatsoever should be collected on any federal aid project."

"It comes my duty as chief executive to enforce the law of the state providing for a free bridge and a free highway to the people traveling over said bridge and highway and also to aid in enforcement of the law of the United States in the maintenance of relations, expressed and implied, so made between the national and state governments for construction, maintenance and free use of the bridge and its approaches."

Last night the governor said that the toll bridge as long as the free bridge remains open. A federal

PRISON CONDITIONS ROUNDLY SCORED BY WICKERSHAM BODY

NATION'S SYSTEM DECLARED
ANTIQUE, INSUFFICIENT AND BRUTAL

By JOHN F. CHESTER
WASHINGTON, July 27. (AP)—The Wickersham law enforcement commission today condemned the nation's prison system as antiquated, insufficient, failing to reform the criminal or protect society, and as using brutal disciplinary measures without justification.

Submitting its seventh report to President Hoover, dealing with "penal institutions, probation and parole," the commission advocated the creation of a new system in which iron bars would play but a small part and education would be uppermost.

Much of the report was a denunciation of prison conditions, characterized as "almost incredible," under which men were crowded in overcrowded cells without sufficient light or fresh air or benefit of modern plumbing.

It lashed out also at the system of prison discipline described as "traditional, antiquated, unintelligent and not infrequently cruel and inhuman." Asserting these methods "contribute to the increase of crime by hardening

WEEK-END RATE OF VIOLENT DEATH IN TEXAS RUNS HIGH

DOZEN KNOWN DEAD AS
RESULTS OF HOMICIDES,
WRECKS, ACCIDENTS

(By The Associated Press.)
Twelve persons were known to have met violent death in Texas in a series of homicides, wrecks and accidents during the week-end.

Automobile injuries and burns headed the list of fatalities with three each.

The dead:
GEORGE LOWERY, 56, Nacogdoches.

PRIVATE JOSEPH A. CLINTON, 19, Fort Ringgold.

LEIGH HARKEY, 12, Turner.

MILDRED ECKER, 15, Amarillo.

MRS. THERESA ECKER, Amarillo.

FLOYD FLYNN, 25, San Antonio.

FRANK W. KENDRICK, 27, Houston.

RAYMOND ABAHAST, 7, Dallas.

H. O. DAVIS, 39, El Paso.

Atkinson, the Brady girl and the Abahast boy died in automobile wrecks.

The Brady child was precipitated from an overturning car into the path of a large truck and crushed to death.

Kendrick, the Ecker girl and her mother, died of burns. Kendrick was fatally burned when his plane fell and caught fire in the outskirts of Houston.

Mrs. Ecker was fatally burned when she attempted to rescue her children from flames which started in her Amarillo home when a jar of gasoline exploded in the hands of her daughter, Mildred.

Lowery, a ranchman, was shot to death near Nacogdoches.

Flynn and Harkey died from knife wounds inflicted during altercations.

Private Clinton was fatally in-

Grand Old Man of Tammany Is 102 Years Old

NEW YORK, July 27. (AP)—John R. Voorhis, the grand old man of Tammany Hall, celebrated his 102nd birthday today by partaking of an egg and a glass of milk, which his physician said would do him more good than cake.

Besides, the grand sash of Tammany Hall—that is his social title; his other is president of the board of elections—said he didn't want any more birthday cakes. "I've had too many birthday cakes already. I don't want any fuss this time."

He gathered together a few belongings and some personal documents, he said good-bye to Pedro Ojeda, who was chosen his safe conductor, to succeed him, and left Moneda palace at 12.30 a. m. in the automobile of General Supulveda, chief of the garrison of Santiago.

With him were a few army officers and other friends.

Because many persons have been attempting to kill Ibanez before he had a chance to leave the country, the greatest secrecy surrounded his departure.

The streets were deserted when the president left Santiago, so the getaway was simple. About the only persons abroad were troops on guard at the palace.

To insure the safety of the retiring president was one of the first problems of the new regime. The feeling of the public was plainly shown at last night's chamber of deputies meeting. After the deputies had accepted his resignation and he had been granted safe conduct, so great a clamor was raised by the galleries that the vote was reconsidered, his request to leave Chile was rejected and his prosecution demanded.

Ibanez, self-styled "Man of Destiny" who once said he enjoyed divine guidance in ruling, was under guard at the presidential palace while this was going on.

After the exciting chamber of deputies meeting, Santiago quieted down considerably. The senate already had approved the resignation and the safe conduct, and no further action was taken legislatively last night.

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 27. (AP)—Carlos Ibanez, who resigned yesterday as president of Chile, fled the presidential palace early today by automobile, heading for the port of San Antonio apparently to board a destroyer or passenger ship.

Gathering together a few belongings and some personal documents, he said good-bye to Pedro Ojeda, who was chosen his safe conductor, to succeed him, and left Moneda palace at 12.30 a. m. in the automobile of General Supulveda, chief of the garrison of Santiago.

Engineer Fast Express Dies at Throttle Today

NEW YORK, July 27. (AP)—When an Albany to New York Express of the New York Central Railroad pulled into Grand Central terminal early today, few of the 300 passengers knew that Tom Galvin, the engineer, died of a heart attack after bringing his train to an unscheduled stop at Beacon, N. Y.

Train attendants removed him from the cab and the fireman brought the express to this city on time.

It so happens that Senator Moses is the target of some of the disgruntled Republican independents, who hold the balance of power in the next senate and house. They have intimated that the scalp of Senator Moses as president pro tempore is to be removed next session.

Senator Moses is aware of the threat and through the unique medium of a magazine article he informed his prospective scalpers this week in this form:

"In the seventy-second congress" (the next congress) "where the margin in both chambers is appreciable as between the two parties, it is wholly conceivable that a single vote, cast through the plague, resentment or even pureness, may overturn the whole of the existing state of affairs."

"And it so happens that the order in which the successive votes are taken for the organization of the senate lends itself enticingly to produce such a result."

In other words, the senate votes first upon a proposition to assume the next congress, then the House, and should Senator Moses be eliminated by his Republican colleagues in favor of the Democratic candidate, he simply proposes, through the narrow division between the parties, to throw his vote and elect from the chairman of certain committees those Republicans who voted to overthrow him.

The Democrats, on organization, will vote as a unit for their nominees, but they expect the Republicans to do likewise. The Republicans, usually vote together on organization for self-preservation.

But there have been rumors that Senator Nye of North Dakota, and others would do away with Senator Moses and vote instead for the Democratic nominee for president pro tempore—Senator Pittman of Nevada.

So Mr. Moses has sent word that there are two sides to such a proposition and that he and some of his friends will retaliate by voting to make Democrats chairman of committees headed by the insurgents who vote against him.

TWO INDEPENDENTS ON STAND IN OIL PROBE OF SOLONS

WALTER A. DUFFY TELLS OF HIS WELLS BEING
DRAINED BY OFFSETS

AUSTIN, July 27. (AP)—Two independent operators were on the witness stands today as the house and senate of the Texas legislature went ahead with their separate investigations of the oil industry. This was the last day of the house inquiry unless members should vote to extend it. The senate examination was scheduled to run through Wednesday.

Walter A. Duffy of Fort Worth told the house he believed pipe lines should be forced to take all oil produced in accordance with orders of the regulatory commission and related the difficulty he had experienced in getting pipe connections to property in East Texas.

He stated offsets to his holdings had been overproducing by virtue of injunction suits and had been draining his oil. He stated no serious effort was being made to enforce the oil conservation laws.

He recommended divestment of the pipe lines from producing companies.

The senate heard Ed R. Mayer of Amarillo, who previously had testified before the house. Mayer introduced the bill which had been introduced by Senator Charles S. Gainer of Bryan.

Mayer said production in Texas had discriminated against the independent because it was based on potential rather than on actual production. The large companies either own the big producers or buy them, and that the man with a 300-barrel well gets his production out in the same ratio as the man with a 30,000-barrel gusher.

He said he favored giving a commission power to prevent production above reasonable market demand. However, the commission conflict is impending, should determine the amount of the demand, Mayer added.

AUSTIN, July 27. (AP)—A bill to prevent unfair price discriminations by any company engaged in production, manufacture or sale of any commodity in general use to destroy competition was introduced in the house today by Representative J. T. Cox of Groesbeck.

The bill would prevent the sale of a commodity for one price in one community and for a higher or lower price in another community unless the difference was caused by variations in "trade of the product sold or higher cost of transportation."

Complaint had been made in the house investigation of the oil industry that major companies had reduced prices on commodities in several instances to destroy the business of a local competitor. The bill would provide a fine for each day's violation of $1,500 per day for each day's violation. Penalties on individuals violating the law would be a fine of $100 to $5,000 and imprisonment from 30 days to one year.

A bill increasing the penalties for violations of the common carrier pipe line law was introduced by Representative F. M. Davis of Brownwood. The penalty would be from $100 to $1,000 per day for each day's violation. The railroad commission also would be given the right of injunctive relief against pipe line companies believed to be violating the law, and also to ask for enforcement of a receiver to take the affairs of companies convicted of violating the provisions of the bill.

INTERNECINE STRIFE MAY CAUSE OVERTHROW G. O. P. CONTROL OF NEXT CONGRESS

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON
WASHINGTON, July 27. (AP)—Internecine war is threatening republican control of the next senate and the house.

Republicans have a slender plurality of one in the senate and the Democrats are not yet assuming the responsibility organization of this independent branch entails.

Senator Moses of New Hampshire, the president pro tem, in a frank manner disclosed the Republican conflict that is impending in an article this week in the Saturday Evening Post.

It so happens that Senator Moses is the target of some of the disgruntled Republican independents, who hold the balance of power in the next senate and house. They have intimated that the scalp of Senator Moses as president pro tempore is to be removed next session.

Senator Moses is aware of the threat and through the unique medium of a magazine article he informed his prospective scalpers this week in this form:

UNITED STATES IS GRADUALLY COMING OUT OF DEPRESSION

THIS IS OPINION OF ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF COMMERCE KLEIN

WASHINGTON, July 27. (AP)—Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, believes the United States is gradually coming out of the depression and making progress toward preventing future business declines.

"We are obviously coming out of the depression," Klein said in a radio address last night, "and at the same time we are seeing the basis laid for an enduring stable prosperity that will resist another depression."

Stressing the need for accurate statistics and their correct interpretation, he said "better knowledge as to all phases of the intricate operation of industry, wider distribution of ascertained facts, and institution of effective research into economic factors will make for business stability."

The commerce department's newly revised survey of current business was held up as a splendid guide for business, but the speaker said additional figures always will be demanded.

Statistics were needed, he said, showing how stocks of finished goods were running, the fluctuations in the total of real estate and personal credits extended in the country, unemployment, and what new forms of transportation were going to the business fabric.

"Our whole trouble," he asserted, "originated largely in the fact that we had too much guesswork. Too much easy-going guessing hunches. And so I do not believe it possible to overstate the importance of the new statistical studies to American enterprise."

"During the last ten years, American business has been making a fine and at least partially successful struggle to develop and apply scientific methods to its own conduct. The art of business management is still surrounded by much mystery, but nevertheless there has been a tremendous evolution of system experiences in this

RUMORS THAT FREE BRIDGE BE CLOSED RULES ALFALFA BILL

Injunction restrains interference with toll bridge traffic.

Murray said the law could best be enforced by the military power of the state.

He announced he was continuing the military zone he ordered established north of the toll bridge.

The military zone for the bridge, the order said, covers the bridge and extends northward to the point of divergence of the road leading to the toll bridge, over which the governor July 23 declared martial law.

The free bridge martial law zone will be 200 feet wide.

"The martial law is extended over the zone wholly to prevent any blocking of the bridge or road, and to prevent all obstructions being placed on or near the bridge or the approaches which in any way obstruct free passage," the order said.

Free Passage Guaranteed

"The national guards are ordered to maintain military control over the zone for the purpose and that only of continuing the free passage to the end that both the state and federal laws and the contract law of the state and federal governments shall be upheld."

Guards were declared under direct command of the governor as commander in chief and directed to "recognize no authority save and except that of the governor of the United States or that of the supreme court of the United States."

Adj. Gen. Charles F. Barrett, who returned to the capitol when Murray assumed direct control of the situation at the bridge, said today that although the zone had been extended some of the guardsmen on duty probably would be felled and only a mere handful would remain at the "front."

The free bridge, previously closed despite Murray's executive order to open it because of a Texas federal injunction, was opened to travel last week when the Texas order was suspended.

At Houston Aug. 4 federal court is scheduled to hear the injunction on suspension of the temporary injunction which held the free bridge closed until last Saturday.

On the same date at Muskogee, Oklahoma, the federal court is scheduled to hear the injunction against closing of the toll span.

Murray, as head of the national guard, has taken full responsibility for any defiance of court edict.

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 27.—(AP)—Believing his right to keep the free bridge open across the Red river between Durant and Denison open virtually successful, Governor "Alfalfa" Murray turned to other matters of state at his office here today.

The chief executive returned to Oklahoma City late yesterday after he had technically complied with most of the provisions of federal injunction issued at Muskogee Saturday, leaving the military law and the bridgehead in command of Lieut. Col. John MacDonald of Durant.

The provision of the injunction obtained upon petition of the owners of the toll bridge, the federal court, that traffic be allowed to move over the toll bridge had been met by the governor.

An order of A. R. Losh, state engineer, read:

"According to the provisions of the federal court at Muskogee, you are hereby commanded to relieve and remove all employees and repair men from the highway department from the road or highway leading to the toll bridge heretofore operated across the Red River between Durant and Denison.

"You and all employees of your department are hereby commanded to obey the orders of the court, and abstain from all acts complained of."

Murray took leave of his martial law camp at the Denison-Durant bridgehead yesterday afternoon and sped back to the capitol here.

Plans Changed.

The change in the Governor's previously announced plans to "camp out here till the feds is over," came at mid-afternoon, and by 6:30 p. m. Murray was behind his office doors.

An important concession was made yesterday by the Governor, when after having previously decided a federal court injunction to prevent closing of the toll bridge, he ordered the national guard to relax its vigilance but remain on duty.

The action was considered in some quarters as a reversal of his attitude, rather than an attitude, but Murray himself said:

"We've got the free bridge opened, as we wanted it. Now, if there are any folks fool enough to pay 75 cents to go over the toll bridge when they've got a free bridge alongside, why let them do it."

He ordered the national guard to remain in miles along the highway north from the bridge head.

Congressional Pro.

Meanwhile, a move was under way to secure support of the entire Oklahoma delegation in congress for a congressional investigation of the use of federal injunctions in the Texas-Oklahoma bridge squabble.

Senator Adair said: "If I develop the inquiry is justified, resolutions will be introduced when congress reconvenes in December."

Governor did not say how permanent opening of the free bridge is to be effected but it was understood negotiations were being conducted partly through Dr. M. M. Davis of Denison, Tex. If these negotiations succeed, Murray likely will let martial law at the toll bridge entrance.

Murray remained vociferous in his criticism of federal injunction issued at Muskogee Saturday by Judge Colin Neblett which restrained interference with toll bridge travel although he complied with its provisions in allowing toll span traffic and by relieving Adjutant General Charles F. Barrett and highway employees

Murray Fights For Low Retail Prices of Bread

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 27.—(AP)—Governor Murray's attack on retail bread prices, it was learned here today, has taken form at the state prison, McAlester, where Warden Sam Brown is compiling cost of penitentiary-made bread.

The prison was in the ice business today, cars lining up at the institution's ice dock to get ice at 30 cents per 100 pounds—half the prevailing rate. Plans also were being made to inaugurate a delivery system for prison-made ice.

Governor Murray said his "war on high prices" might extend to other retail lines and that it will be pushed vigorously against telephone, gas, electric and ice rates. Investigations of the latter four utilities are under way.

at the "front" who were named in the order.

He said, "from the sweeping Muskogee injunction that the only thing they overlooked was that they didn't enjoin filling stations from selling gasoline to persons intending to drive over a free bridge."

He said the order, which restrained dissemination of information to direct motorists away from the pay structure, violated the right of free speech and the state's immunity against private suit.

Rep. McKeown also said a federal judge can't enjoin free speech, and that "the order was the most preposterous proposition I ever heard of."

Col. MacDonald reported today the toll bridge company had made no attempt to block use of the free bridge.

Murray took occasion to predict the right of all state government and the setting up of a "centralized despotism" if the federal district court attitude in the toll bridge war is upheld.

The governor said that if the federal court order could be carried out, lesser United States courts might enjoin the gov. or himself and all the functions of state government.

"Even if the union," he said, "can see clearly that the result of this bridge question is not whether Oklahoma and Texas shall have a free bridge but whether such decisions are going to be made by the federal court, it is good here, it will be good in all states."

Pointing to the federal highway act of 1921, he said the order "is an injunction against the laws of the United States." The act provides no tolls shall be collected on a federal highway, he said.

The order, he said, also violated the eleventh amendment as a suit against the state because it enjoined General.

Durant and Denison citizens planned a conference at Denison today to complete details of a free bridge celebration.

Gov. Murray and Governor Ross of Texas will be asked to join hands in the center of the span.

Just Laughing It Off

AUSTIN, July 27.—(AP)—Adjutant General William W. Sterling said this afternoon the state was "just laughing off" the latest move of Governor Murray of Oklahoma, who extended his martial law zone to include the much publicized free bridge connecting the states and the abutments on the Texas side.

The adjutant general removed Texas rangers, who had been guarding the Texas end of the free bridge, simultaneously with the suspension of a federal court injunction which enjoined the toll bridge company which had previously opened the span. He said he did not plan to send the rangers back.

"We are not paying any attention to that matter," said General Sterling. "We are just laughing it off as usual."

Governor Ross S. Sterling was in Houston.

Gainesville Resents Being Left Off Road

GAINESVILLE, Tex., July 27.—(AP)—A temporary injunction has been granted by Judge Ben W. Boyd in district court restraining the state highway commission, Cooke county commissioners court and division highway engineers and maintenance men from completing construction of state highway No. 40 from a point 1.6 miles south to intersect with state highway No. 5.

Hearing of the injunction has been set for the September term of court here. The project was listed among those for which it is believed the state highway commission at its meeting Thursday.

The purpose of the injunction suit was to prevent the highway from passing one mile south of Gainesville, rather than through the town. The present route passes through Gainesville. A group of Gainesville business men brought the action.

drive out competition and at a higher price in other places where the transportation costs were the same was introduced in the house.

Would Close Probe

Senator W. A. Williamson of San Antonio announced from the floor that the senate would introduce tomorrow a resolution proposing terminating that body's investigation tomorrow evening.

He said he thought the senate had heard enough—that it should turn, now, to a consideration of legislation.

Senator George Purl of Dallas said he wanted to give notice he would invite Railroad Commissioners Lon Smith and C. V. Terrell to appear and make whatever answer they desired to Pat McNeill, another commissioner, who in a house testimony had charged his two colleagues with a flat failure to regulate the oil industry.

"It would not be fair," Purl shouted, "to end this investigation by giving them the opportunity to answer McNeill if they wanted to."

Various suggestions were called about from the floor and it appeared that the senate might precipitate a wide disagreement tomorrow.

Duffy was followed on the stand in the house by E. J. Swanson, chief of the United States bureau of mines and chairman of the federal oil conservation board.

Swanson gave detailed information relative to production of crude and the consumption in the United States and exports and imports. He estimated Texas production in 1931 would be four per cent less than production the preceding year, despite the heavy production from the giant East Texas field. Imports during the first five months of 1931 decreased six per cent while exports of crude petroleum decreased three per cent and exports of refined products declined 22 per cent, he said.

Oil in storage at the end of May was estimated at six per cent less than on the same date of 1930 while the demand had decreased seven per cent.

United States production for the last six months was estimated at 444,000,000 barrels. If withdrawals from storage of 100,000 barrels per day were maintained. This was the rate of withdrawal the first five months of the year. The oil requirements were listed at 488,000,000 barrels, of which 20,000,000 barrels would be furnished by imports.

In the fall of the government of Chile, the last of the A. B. C. countries, Argentina, Brazil and Chile had his revolution driven to the past year.

President Carlos Ibanez of Chile, who has yielded his power to Vice President Pedro Opazo, President of Argentina, and President Washington Luis of Brazil, all were forced out of office by revolutionary movements and are either in prison in their own countries or exiles in foreign lands, excepting former President Ibanez, whose whereabouts is still a mystery.

President Augusto Leguia of Peru also was overthrown. South American leaders started with the overthrow of President Hernando Siles of Bolivia May 28, 1930.

President Leguia was overthrown August 25, 1930. President Irigoyen was forced out of office by a mutiny of the Argentine army and navy on Sept. 7, 1930. President Washington Luis of Brazil surrendered his office under pressure after weeks of revolutionary fighting on Oct. 25, 1930.

collapse of tin prices and the fall in silver hastened the demonstration against the Bolivian president, who is now living in Chile.

When the Chilean government, the three ministries of Peru, declined to a point that caused Peru's financial situation to weaken to a point that enemies of President Leguia were able to foster rebellion at Arequipa which finally swept him out of power and landed him in prison.

When Leguia fled Peru fell to such a degree that President Irigoyen's administration of finances in Argentina made him the target for a movement of the army and navy which culminated in his imprisonment on a warship.

Brazil's failure to maintain coffee prices through government action in the face of world depression started the financial crisis in North and South Brazil which finally engulfed Rio de Janeiro and forced Washington Luis to leave for France.

Sanctuary for Argentina

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 27.—(AP)—It was semi-officially reported that Carlos Ibanez, who resigned as president of Chile yesterday, traveled by automobile to a small railroad station near Los Andes, where he arrived at 8:30 a. m. today and boarded a special train for the Argentine border.

He was expected to arrive in Argentine territory today.

No Americans Affected

WASHINGTON, July 27.—(AP)—The state department was informed today that no American citizens or interests have been affected in any way by the political upheaval in that country.

The ambassador cabled that there were big crowds in the street in front of the embassy, but there was no particular disorder.

Bonds Decline Momentarily

NEW YORK, July 27.—(AP)—Chilean bonds declined only moderately in the bond exchange today, and were not pressed for sale in any volume.

The view was taken in bond circles at the difficulties in Chile had been known here for some time, and had been largely discounted by the market.

GREATEST SECRECY SURROUNDS FLIGHT OF CARLOS IBANEZ

Today Chile has for the first time in four years a civilian government.

Opazo, who was president of the senate, will function as president of the nation until elections are held. A popular cabinet was formed with Esteban Berrueta as premier and minister of interior and Pedro Bianquero, the country's idol because of the record he made recently in his eight-day premiership, as minister of finance.

Chile has some of the world's richest deposits of copper. The slump in the price of that staple from 16 cents a pound, in the United States, to 8 cents and less, has seriously crippled that republic.

The Chile Copper company, controlling some of Chile's best copper deposits, was once dominated by American interests.

In 1923, they sold controlling interest to the Anaconda Copper Mining company.

Chile Copper company's properties comprise the largest known body of copper ore in the world, being sufficient to last over 70 years, based on an annual production of 375,000 pounds.

Anacoda also holds most of the outstanding stock of the Andes Copper company, which has valuable properties in Chile.

The Kennecott Copper corporation owns valuable copper deposits in Chile through its subsidiary the Braden Copper company. Braden, at Sewell, Chile, has a plant with an annual capacity of about 180,000 pounds of copper.

The Guggenheim interests have also taken a leading part in the development of Chile's rich nitrate deposits. The Guggenheim company, the Anglo-Chilean Consolidated Nitrate Corporation, recently became a part of the $375,000,000 Chilean nitrate monopoly sponsored by the government. A new company, known as the Chile Nitrate Corporation, was formed to consolidate the various producers. The Chilean government holds a one-half interest in the new company.

Germans Cheer British Prime Minister to Echo

BERLIN, July 27.—(AP)—Thousands of cheering Germans overwhelmed Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald when he arrived here this afternoon to resume his convalescent leave from his duties. They gave him the most vigorous welcome a visiting foreigner had received in years.

He reached the capital several hours after Arthur Henderson, the British foreign secretary, arrived to step into a cheering crowd which gave unmistakable evidence of the friendship of the German people.

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, who was here over the week end on an unofficial visit, left by airplane for Amsterdam on the morning of his departure.

He avoided a crowd at the airport, for the newspapers had announced that he intended to leave by train.

Another Well in East Texas Sector In Flames Monday

DUMAS, July 27.—(AP)—Preparations to extinguish the fire at No. 1 Jones well, 12 miles north of Dumas, were under way today. Tex. Thornton, explosives expert, was in charge of the fire fighting crew.

The well, which was the property of the Dumas Oil and Gas company, and Jim Clark, Inc., caught fire yesterday from the engine while being cleaned.

Production at the well had been 100 barrels of oil and 15,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily.

PITTSBURGH HOME FOR AGED SWEPT BY FIRE DEMON

THIRTY KNOWN DEAD, MANY SEVERELY INJURED; SEVERAL REPORTED MISSING

PITTSBURGH, July 25.—(AP)—Twenty-seven persons, 25 of them believed inmates of the Little Sisters of the Poor Home for the aged and one a nun, were burned to death, and 216 others are in hospitals, victims of fire that turned the haven of the old and helpless into a place of horror and suffering last night and early today.

The coroner's office reported 15 persons still were unaccounted for, but the ruins had been searched thoroughly, dissipating belief that more had died in the flames. Twenty-six bodies, only three of them identified definitely more than 48 hours after the fire was discovered, were in the county morgue.

Physicians feared the shock of terror and confusion among the aged would increase the number of fatalities. Most of the residents were calm and helped their fellow inmates as the fire raged, but later collapsed.

Fire Chief Richard L. Smith estimated that the damage was at between $45,000 and $50,000.

The death of Samuel Berry, 72, this afternoon at West Penn hospital gave physicians further grounds for fear that injury and shock would be fatal to others.

Hospital authorities said the lives of about six were hanging in the balance.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 25.—(AP)—Fire swept the home of the aged of the Little Sisters of the Poor here last night and early today, sending thirty of its old and enfeebled inmates to their deaths.

More than a hundred others rested in hospitals nearby, many of them burned most of their bodies to recover from the smoke and heat that felled them, some of them so weakened by burns, smoke, heat and the terror of the night that they were feared they could not recover.

At daybreak firemen re-entered the ruins to renew their search for the dead. Police meanwhile checked unofficial reports that six and probably more were missing.

The alarm came from the outside, and heavy barred gates and a high stone wall faced those who sought to warn inmates of their peril. One warning was given chaos ruled. The few nuns, the staff of the home, struggled to lead to safety those of the 250 patients—145 men and 105 women—they housed.

Of the inmates themselves, the stronger helped the weaker; those who could struggled from window to window, crying for rescue; those whose infirmities pinned them to their beds, followed the example of blind Mrs. Mary Kilne, 80, who "dropped on my knees and prayed to God," and many of them were saved.

Firemen Work Frantically

Outside, firemen battered down the heavy gates to get in their equipment, fought futilely for a time to maintain against the walls ladders that burned as they were reared, and then turned to the inside, frantically calling to the imprisoned to leap for their lives.

Even before firemen reached the scene scores of the men of the poor neighborhood, with their hands and feet sealed the walls and begun work to rescue. Before fierce heat drove them back, they raced into the burning structure, bearing out the helplessness. When heat within frustrated them they formed human chains on fire escapes, passing old men and women to the other until the ground was reached.

On the inside, however, physicians and nurses from throughout the city plied their tasks. Nearly all those brought out required treatment of some nature in the shade of the fire, for that had been the home of their dying days.

True To Their Faith.

Within and without, priests gave the last sacrament to the dying at the risk of their lives. Yet the terror of the sudden alarm, their helplessness, and the doubts as to whether they could or would be saved, were not the first concern of many of the inmates. Of those who were given first aid on the lawn of the home, many had clasped in their arms the holy emblems of their faith.

When the fire was established hours later, started in the morgue in the basement of the four-story brick charitable institution. Whatever the cause, flames soon raged throughout the structure, oxygen time firemen had begun their work the cupola topping the building collapsed, injuring three of the rescuers below.

Such headway had the fire gained that all hope of saving the building was abandoned. All concentrated on rescue—firemen, police, nuns, priests, and every man who could get through the fire lines quickly established. On every floor of many of the buildings, trying to rescue where they could, refusing to be rescued and insisting that their charges be taken first when help was at hand.

Mostly eager was Sister Agatha, mother superior of the home. Taken from the building, she tore herself from her assistants and rushed indoors once more. Nuns pleaded with firemen to save her.

An hour later she was found struggling to help the enfeebled crying hysterically, exhausted from her labors, barely conscious amid the confusion of smoke and falling debris.

Of the 250 persons confined to the home, not one was under 60 years old, and most of them were much older. So many were in firm that firemen admitted that they not volunteers swarmed to the scene the situation could not have been controlled as quickly as it was.

The experience of Mrs. Margaret Connolly, 75, was typical. "We were almost suffocating," she said. "The women had to run from window to window for help. Sister Pasceline, in charge of the floor, made them sick

Heavy Fighting Reported Among Chinese Forces

TOKYO, July 27.—(AP)—Heavy fighting with many casualties in the region between Peking and Chengkingfu was reported today from Peking.

The Mukden forces, dispatches said, launched a general offensive to check the advance of General Shihyushan along the Peking-Hankow Railway, and reinforcements for the Mukden troops were enmeshing in the neighborhood of Changshingien, just outside Peking.

Shihyushan's division was reported advancing eastward apparently in an effort to gain control of the Tientsin-Fukow Railway to the south of Tientsin to attack the Mukden forces from the rear.

Their heads out and breathe before going on. There were no lights and the heat on the floor was intense. I felt too weak to go on. I sank back on a bed and a fireman carried me out."

Eight alarms were turned in within a few minutes after the first warning cry was raised. Soon thereafter they were jammed with a crowd estimated at 20,000 persons. Cabs and automobiles bringing more sightseers to the spot were commanded to help the injured and overcome to hospitals.

All three nearby hospitals were crowded to their capacity with an hour, and homes, schools and parish houses in the neighborhood were opened to receive the hurt and doubly homeless. An emergency hospital was set up in a school across the street.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 25.—(AP)—A burly, broad-shouldered policeman knelt at the hospital bed of a little white-haired old woman this morning and wept while she gently stroked his hair.

Patrolman Eabrial Voletto was on duty at an east end police station last night when word came that there was a fire nearby. The home of the Little Sisters of the Poor was ablaze, Voletto learned.

Voletto's mother long had made her home there.

Frantic, the officer searched the hospitals—then the morgue. Just before daybreak Voletto turned over to his colleagues. He stepped suddenly before one of the white cots—"Exhausted," and the smoke; she'll be all right now," a nurse whispered, and then Babaria Voletto heard his mother call his name.

Fiery Missourian Is Invited to Speak Texas Legislature

AUSTIN, July 27.—(AP)—A resolute Senator J. S. A. Reed, (Dem.) of Missouri, to address the Texas legislature was adopted by the house today.

Reed was invited to speak on world currency conditions and on trust and monopolies. The house is conducting an investigation of the oil industry to determine if it is dominated by trusts and monopolies.

Miss Bess Johnston was in Corsicana Monday from Powell.

BLANKET INDICTMENT IS BROUGHT AGAINST BODY BY MEMBER

NEFF SAYS NOT EVEN AN INTELLIGENT GESTURE FOR CONSERVATION MADE

AUSTIN, July 25.—(P)—Failure of the Texas railroad commission to enforce conservation laws was attributed today by Pat M. Neff, member of the commission, to "physical inactivity; mental inertia and a desire to work along the lines of least resistance on the part of the commission." Neff testified before the house committee investigating the oil industry.

"There has not even been an intelligent gesture looking to conservation or fair proration on the part of the railroad commission," Neff stated, adding that no operator or company had any fear or respect for the orders of the commission.

He was asked if the railroad commission had suffered from lack of technical advice.

"The commission has been swamped with technical advice; we are swimming in it," Neff answered. The commission also has not suffered from lack of help, he said.

Neff said intelligent enforcement of the present conservation laws for the past two years have prevented the economic conditions in the oil industry and said he believed present laws were adequate.

No effort either directly or indirectly has been made by the commission to enforce conservation. In issuing its proration orders, the commission has let outsiders set the allowable and then the commission has done its best to cooperate with persons wanting to be prorated, Neff said.

Among the derelictions of the railroad commission, Neff cited failure to enforce the ratable taking pipe line law; failure to enforce the common purchase law; failure to set fair rates for pipeline transportation; and failure to prevent gas wastage by settling an oil and gas ratio.

The commission has not been overworked during the time it has been a member of it, Neff said, but has left enforcement of its orders to agents of the companies and persons sought to be regulated.

Present conditions would have been ameliorated had the commission adopted a rule requiring property line wells to be drilled within 600 feet of property lines and that in addition to the 500 to 600 feet apart. This would have curbed frenzied drilling activity and prevent enormous wastage, Neff said. He recommended such a law.

Chairman University Regents Is Witness

AUSTIN, July 25.—(P)—The University of Texas, through the chairman of its regents, R. L. Batts, joined today, at least to some extent, the conservation advocates beseeching the special session of the Texas legislature to do something to help the oil industry.

Mr. Batts appeared before the senate investigating committee while W. S. Farish, chairman of the university's regents, was before the house committee being questioned at length about the connection of his company with the Standard Oil Company and about other matters raised in his direct testimony.

Mr. Batts outlined before the senate what he described as a serious condition of the oil industry. He said that the university's regents, county (Big Lake) field, citing figures to show that at one well it required 2,375 cubic feet of gas to raise a barrel of oil, whereas at another 600 cubic feet it required as much as 7,480 cubic feet.

The regent chairman, while saying some reduction in waste had been accomplished by the operators themselves, said "at least most of the wells can be produced on a much smaller ratio."

"The regents," he went on, "desire to pass the matter to you. We are not trying to pass the buck, but we are not at all assured we can do anything. We want an independent witness, and not the oil companies, to determine these policies (of conservation)."

"We do not want this tremendous asset of the university and of the state to be wasted. There is, from my standpoint, at least, both economic and physical waste. We believe you have complete control of physical waste, at least."

No justification for waste. "We believe there is no justification for using such an amount of gas to produce such an amount of oil."

He recounted that if gas was worth "one-tenth of what I pay for it in my home," he was requiring in the Big Lake deep wells 20 cents worth of gas to lift 20 cents worth of oil.

While both houses went ahead with their inquiries, there had been no legislative expression concerning the three judge federal court decision, announced last night holding the state railroad commission had usurped authority in its oil proration orders now in effect under present statutes.

Senator Walter Woodul of Coleman, caring for the bill to provide a new conservation commission, had said he believed the bill, which has administration sanction, would not be affected.

Mr. Farish, in his questioning by the house, said Standard of New Jersey owned 65 per cent of Humble stock and declared proration, if successful, would enable the producer to regulate the supply and virtually name his own price. He denied a statement by an earlier witness that Humble was losing $1,500,000 a month.

"It's pretty high," said the president, "but not that high."

DRASTIC ECONOMY FOR GOVERNMENTAL AFFAIRS DEMANDED

WASHINGTON, July 25.—(P)—Drastic economy in government expenditures is demanded by the forthcoming fiscal year has been demanded by President Hoover to meet sharply declining treasury receipts.

The chief executive has ordered all government heads to withhold funds not needed for actual operation purposes this year and to pare to a minimum estimates of expenditures for the next fiscal year.

In a letter to all government department and agency heads, dated July 19, the chief executive stated the financial condition of the federal government as "a serious one."

"The July 1 estimates of expenditures for the fiscal year 1932, the letter said, indicated that, in spite of all efforts for economy, the expenditures now contemplated by the department and establishments will be in excess of those estimated as of June 1, and also in excess of those made actually during the fiscal year 1931."

In view of the fact that our receipts are materially falling off from the amount estimated at the time of the preparation of the budget, the president said, "consequently, a large deficit indicated for the current year, I wish again to bring to your attention the seriousness of our financial situation."

He said that the president is deeply impressed with the urgent need for economies and postponements in view of this situation.

The president referred to the treasury deficit in excess of $900,000,000 at the end of the fiscal year 1931, on June 30, and to the deficit in the current year amounting to approximately $5,000,000,000.

"The situation is a serious one," the letter continued, "and demands that we make the most earnest effort to eliminate or postpone all activities such as may be so treated without serious detriment to the public welfare."

"You have been requested to furnish to the bureau of the budget for my information not later than August 27, a statement of appropriations available for expenditure during the current and subsequent fiscal years, with an indication of the amount of the savings which you are obligated therefrom and the contemplated ultimate savings."

"Pending the completion and analysis of this statement, I wish to suggest that you refrain from obligating money actually available for expenditure during the current fiscal year except in those cases where such postponement to the detriment of the public welfare."

This letter followed the recent request to the president that all high government officials suspend estimates to restrict them to actual operation needs.

PRISONER SAYS WAY FROM FAIRFIELD JAIL LAST NIGHT

FAIRFIELD, July 24.—(Special to The Daily Sun)—M. Derden, convicted of forgery in the present term of the Eighty-seventh district court, and sentenced to three years in the state penitentiary, escaped from the "death cell" of the Freestone county jail about 11:30 Thursday night. He was wanted in Limestone and Navarro counties on indictments of forgery.

A posse headed by Sheriff Jim Sessions of Fairfield was seeking the escaped prisoner Friday.

He was joined in the escape by Richard Mallard, a negro, under a two-year sentence for burglary.

After his conviction, Derden had been confined in the "death cell" on the second floor of the jail, and Mallard, a negro, under a two-year sentence for burglary.

An attempt was made to steal the automobile of Monroe Bradley of Fairfield about midnight Thursday, and officers believe had administration sanction, would not be affected.

No clue has been found as to how the prisoner secured the keys. The jailer reported Friday that he had noticed the Derden had his clothes hanging in the window for several days, and it is believed that he was "ing behind this makeshift screen."

The "death cell" is located on the northern corner of the second floor, immediately adjoining the old gallows-site.

Derden was placed in the Freestone county jail after a lengthy chase by Sheriff Jim Sessions, that carried him to Arkansas before the prisoner was finally arrested.

BARRIERS REMOVED FROM TEXAS SIDE OF STRUCTURE QUICKLY

FEDERAL JUDGE SUSPENDS
INJUNCTION FOLLOWING
SIGNING OF NEW LAW

DENISON, July 25.—(P)—The Texas highway department removed the barriers at the free bridge across the Red River at 11:47 today. Hundreds of automobiles that had been expecting the opening, drove across in a steady stream.

A motorcade of 24 automobiles, bearing 75 members of the highway 75 association, led the parade across the free bridge. They had arrived from Galveston an hour before the opening and waited at the head of the column.

They were en route to Winnipeg, Canada, on a good-tour.

DURANT, Okla., July 25.—(P)—The free bridge between the Red River between Denison, Texas, and Durant, subject of a controversy with armed forces called out to support each of the states contention, was opened today shortly after noon. The highway department's opening had been dissolved at Houston.

Texas rangers, who had been stationed on the Texas side to prevent the highway from being removed, were ordered to remove barriers from the highway approach and traffic began moving across the span.

A caravan of automobiles, bearing Highway 75 boosters on trip from Galveston, Texas to Winnipeg, Can., was one of the first groups of cars and trucks to move across the bridge with its opening.

Dream of Year Is Finally Realized

AUSTIN, July 25.—(P)—Opening of a free bridge today across the Red River between Denison and Durant, Okla., marked the realization of a dream of several years.

Friction between the highway commissions of Oklahoma and Texas, opposition of a company operating the bridge, and a lack of adequate statutes and federal court injunctions were some of the obstacles the builders of a free span had to overcome.

The most serious of these was the opposition of the Red River bridge company, which claimed perpetual franchise from the Chickasaw and Choctaw nations to operate a toll span over the stream.

This company threatened to go into court and hold up the building of a free structure for two or three years, and it was not until the company's agreement not to bring additional suits and for other considerations the highway commission agreed to pay it a certain sum of money.

Terms of this agreement have not been fulfilled. The highway commission, the bridge company differed on the amount owed under the contract and the attorney general's department held the company liable for the amount of $80,000 while the bridge company claimed the debt was $150,000.

F. M. Kennerly, federal judge at Houston, issued an injunction preventing the opening of the free structure until the contract had been complied with. He said the toll bridge company had no other remedy.

Then the legislature stepped into the picture. It yesterday passed a bill permitting the toll bridge company to operate the bridge on the contract. With that law enacted, Judge Kennerly today suspended the injunction until August 3, with state officials confident it would be dissolved.

Governor Murray of Oklahoma meanwhile blocked the road leading to the Oklahoma side of the toll bridge and several miles up the river. The governor sent militia to the Oklahoma side to block court action to force him to open the toll bridge road.

Judge Suspended Injunction Order

HOUSTON, July 25.—(P)—Judge T. M. Kennerly suspended, temporarily, today in federal court the injunction previously issued against the highway 75 bridge between Denison and Durant.

The suspension is effective until August 3 at which time there will be a hearing on the petition to dissolve the injunction permanently.

Sidney Benbow, assistant attorney general of Texas, immediately following the issuance of the suspension order, wired Ranger Captain Tom Hiskman at Denison to remove the barriers on the Texas side of the bridge and to permit free traffic. Mr. Benbow declared that he also ordered that the Rangers be withdrawn.

The motions to dissolve the injunction were based on the fact that the Red River Bridge Company, through its receiver, J. R. Handy, now has adequate remedy at law to sue upon the contract which is alleged to have been entered into between the bridge company and the state highway department.

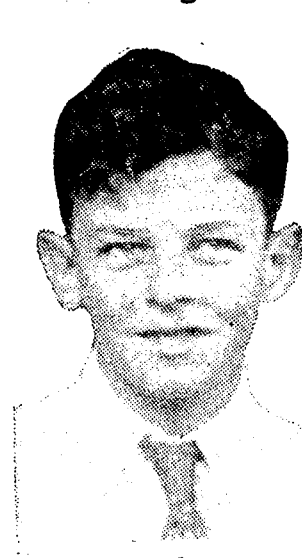

AUSTIN, July 25.—(P)—Pat Dougherty, secretary to Governor Ross S. Sterling, today filed with the secretary of state the new law designed to bring about the opening of the Red River free bridge between Denison and Durant, Okla.

SWIM IN GIN POOL ENDS IN DEATH FOR STREETMAN YOUTH

A moonlight swim in the Hawthorn gin tank at Streetman resulted in the drowning of Allison Burleson, aged 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Burleson of Streetman about 9 o'clock Thursday night.

Young Burleson in company with Lloyd and Aubrey Gregory and three other boys, who were swimming in the gin pool, were engaged in playing on a section of an old log when the timber turned suddenly, tossing the boys into the water.

Burleson failed to return to the surface and his companions started a search for him, it was reported.

After the shouts of alarm brought other assistance and the body was recovered about twenty-five minutes later. A pulmonator was summoned from Corsicana and was carried to Streetman by the Sutherland ambulance, but efforts to revive the youth were unsuccessful after more than an hour's use of the pulmonator.

The youth is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Burleson, four brothers and three sisters, and numerous other relatives.

Streetman was grief-stricken by the tragedy and dozens of citizens of the entire citizenry of the community were gathered about the time efforts were being made to resuscitate the youth.

The gin pool was closed Thursday night that the water was not deep enough to be over the youth's head when he was standing erect.

The time and place for the holding of the funeral services for the youth were not known here Friday.

Mrs. D. C. Kelly of Corsicana, a cousin of the deceased, went to Streetman shortly before noon Friday.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FRIDAY FOR DROWNED YOUTH

Funeral services for Allison Burleson, aged 19 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Burleson of Streetman, who was drowned in a gin pool in Streetman, Thursday night, were held in Streetman Friday afternoon with interment in the Birdson cemetery.

Surviving his parents are four brothers, three sisters and other relatives.

Young Burleson was in swimming with Lloyd and Aubrey Gregory and he was thrown into the water from an old log, according to reports. Burleson failed to return to the top of the water and his body was recovered about twenty-five minutes later by a pulmonator.

Federal Inspector Visiting Farms In Navarro County Now

C. C. Ellis, a representative of the United States Department of Agriculture, attached to the Farmers' Seed Loan office at St. Louis, Missouri, is in Navarro county, making an investigation of the crops of farmers who secured seed loans from the United States government for the purpose of purchasing seed, feed, fertilizer and food.

The St. Louis office has representatives in each state handled by them, and it is their purpose to inspect each farm, as well as make the necessary investigation relative to the use of the funds advanced. Mr. Ellis stated that he will be unable to visit each farm in the county on this trip, but he or some other representative now in the field will be in this section in the near future and a complete investigation will be made at that time of each applicant who secures aid.

Many farmers are now making payments to the St. Louis office. Checks should be drawn payable to the "Disbursing Clerk, Department of Agriculture," Seed and Feed Loan Office, St. Louis, Mo. R. H. McElveen is the administrative officer in charge of the office located in St. Louis.

HOUSTON COUPLE BELIEVED DEAD AS RESULT POISONING

RICE, BOTH PROMINENT,
FOUND DYING IN AUTO

HOUSTON, J., 25.—(P)—Two 19-year-old Rice Institute students, a boy and a girl, are dead, apparently from poisoning, after being found in a critical condition early this morning in an automobile parked on a residence boulevard.

They were Miss Hazel Glover, freshman, and Dan Post Stratton, a junior, both of Houston.

There were no marks of violence on the bodies, and officers expressed belief that poison was the cause of death.

A coroner was investigating and the county physician was ordered to perform an autopsy.

Residents of South Side Place, a suburb, were awakened by a scream shortly after midnight and rushing to the scene, found the small car with the two dying young people.

The boy was crumpled under the wheel and the girl was lying on the floor of the car. Both were bleeding at the nose and mouth. The girl died on the way to a hospital and the boy died shortly after he was taken to give an account of the circumstances leading up to the call for help.

Officers were told that the two had spent the fore part of the night at a roof garden, dancing part of the time but apparently spending a large part of it in earnest conversation. They also were told by friends that the boy had appeared of late to be deeply worried.

Both were members of well to do families.

As officers began to probe into the case, they were told by Mrs. E. C. Smith, aunt of Young Stratton, that he had told her in secret yesterday that he and Miss Glover had been married on June 25.

Stratton's father is an auditor for a tin company in Bolivia, and his mother only recently returned to this city after a visit in South America. She said she and her son had been looking for apartments and he had urged that they get one "with plenty of room."

Although Stratton's family said he had told them of his wedding, records of the county show that a license was not issued here. A letter found in his effects from Miss Glover stated "I really can't wait, 'cause I'm going to break the news," and told of wearing a ring.

Records were found to show a marriage performed in Post and county in March, in which Stratton, and another young Houston society girl were named as principals. A hasty check of surrounding counties showed no prominent action in that case. The family of that young woman stated vigorously they had heard nothing of such a marriage.

Miss Glover was one of the most popular girls in the student body at Rice, being among the best selected for the Institute's beauty section.

Officers continued an effort to determine whether or not the poison caused the deaths and if so, the source of the poison.

HUMBLE OILERS DEFEATED NAVARRO TOPHEAVY SCORE

A four-hit pitching performance by LaHue, combined with a 12-hit attack and a shaky inner defense by Navarro, gave the Humble Oilers a 14-0 victory over Navarro here Wednesday. The Oilers scored in every inning except the second fifth and seventh. They broke the tie with two runs in the first and third and stamped the rubber platter with four rallies in the third, two in the fourth, two in the sixth, and ended by unleashing their long range guns to count for nine runs in the seventh.

Muncy, right field, was caught by the hitting star with four hits out of five trips to the plate. One of his hits was a triple down the right field line. He was caught at the plate trying to stretch it to a circuit blow. His only rival of the fray was Day, who collected three singles as his afternoon's work.

Freestone County Sheriff Continues Raids On Stills

FAIRFIELD, July 25.—(Spl.)—Sheriff Sessions and deputies continue their efforts to suppress the production of Freestone county corn "likker" by bringing in a still occasionally, and sometimes the engineer of the stills.

This week two stills were captured Monday—one about two miles north of town, the other about five miles northeast of Fairfield.

BODY OF MISSING UNIVERSITY GIRL FOUND IN RAVINE

HOLBROOK, Ariz., July 25.—(P)—Henrietta Schmeier, 23-year-old Columbia University student who ventured alone into the wild Apache country here in pursuit of her studies of ethnology and anthropology, was found dead in a ravine near the Fort Apache cemetery yesterday.

The body was found by a searching party which had started a hunt for the girl after her unusually long absence from her shack on the edge of the White River Indian reservation, indicated she had been strangled or smothered after a desperate struggle.

The ground where the body lay was trampled and trampled, indicating violence. The searching party was unable to find additional clues of importance and special reservation officers were called in to assist.

Working against the tactility of the Apaches, the investigators obtained but little information from them. Several Indians were questioned.

Claude Gilbert, a 25-year-old Apache was held on a liquor charge and also for questioning in connection with the case. He said he had planned to accompany Miss Schmeier to a dance last Saturday night. Neither the girl nor the young Apache appeared at Fort Apache, the scene of the dance.

Gilbert denied he had taken the girl to Fort Apache Saturday night and said the last time he saw her was Saturday afternoon. Miss Schmeier disappeared Saturday.

CORSICANA, TEX., JULY 28, 1931

FASHION AND PROSPERITY.

Cotton has been hard hit by changes in women's fashions, for other fabrics have displaced it in recent years. A concerted effort seems now to be making to bring it back into popularity. A greater use of cotton goods would bring prosperity to the cotton planters in the South and to the textile mills, using cotton wherever they may be.

The fashion designers are co-operating with those interested in providing a better market for cotton goods. Women's gowns, which have stopped at the knee for a long time, are now much longer. Those on view in the shop windows reach to the ankle. This means that it will take more cloth to make them. It has been said that a difference of six inches in the length of a dress skirt means prosperity or poverty for the textile mills.

If the skirts are to be six inches longer the manufacturers of fabrics of all kinds will be benefited and the demand for cotton may be offset by the demand for more real and artificial silk occasioned by the decree of fashion for more cloth in a garment. It may come about that fashion will do more to relieve unemployment in certain industries than has been done by all the conferences that have been held.

CONCERNING HOLIDAYS.

Some day somebody somewhere will be moved to utter a warning against the unlicensed multiplication of legal holidays. The more holidays we get, the less inclined people are to take them seriously. A few enthusiastically observed would be better for the object intended than many ignored or neglected altogether.

New Year long ago lost its significance for most people. Even the public schools usually do not close for Lincoln's birthday or for Columbus day. Comparatively few observe Thanksgiving as a religious festival. Even Memorial day has become more of a touring and outing occasion than one for remembering the soldier dead.

If legal holidays are to be merely occasions for escaping work they might as well be distributed evenly through the year. It would simplify matters, for instance, to have a specified day of every month made a legal holiday, taking its name in case from some historic anniversary occurring within the month.

Who will be the first seriously to suggest a revision of holiday schedules in the interests of a harassed and confused mankind?

The home seeker may travel far and fail to find a better place in which to live than Corsicana. With every modern convenience available—a school system second to none in the state—churches, paved streets, hard surfaced highways over the county—a fresh pure water supply—situated in the heart of a rich agricultural district—in fact Corsicana is an ideal city for the home seeker.

Russia's fad for making words of initials, like NEP for New Economic Plan, would never do in the United States. Imagine saying SAP for South American Policy and HOPS for Hoover Overseas Policies.

Some women think the only way to keep a husband in hot water.

Dora says we've been pretty lucky of late that way, and she only hopes it won't rain for the debt holiday.

JUST FOLKS

LOOKING FORWARD
 I find it rather good to live in spite of doubts and fears And all the blows the fates can give
 And changes through the years, For further time I'm glad to spend,
 I still have books I want to read,
 I fancy as I go along There will be pain to bear,
 No doubt some newer form of wrong
 Will catch me unaware, But still some joys I've set aside,
 I've hoped the future would provide.

I know the future cannot be Much sweeter than the past; That what of pleasure comes to me
 Forever cannot last, But still I'd like to live to see A grandchild sitting on my knee.
 I hope the Lord will let me stay A little longer here, The price in pain and care I'll pay
 For every added year, Life still has countless charms to give
 For which I wait and want to live.

DEVELOPING NEW MARKETS.

Little things are done in a big way in American industry and commerce. Moreover, big things have small beginnings and the least significant often assumes overnight the greatest significance.

There is the notable instance of cellophane, which, though only a spruce pulp squeezed through narrow slits, solidified in sheets and chemically treated, has revolutionized distribution and become as much a part of the routine life of Americans as baker's bread.

France invented it 15 years ago, but American manufacturing and merchandising genius developed it to its present stage of almost universal adoption and adaptation for wrapping purposes. So many are its uses that one wonders how the world got along so long without it. An enumeration of them would compare favorably with the uses of steel.

It is used in the manufacture of false teeth, hats, ribbon, Christmas tree ornaments, as insulation for electric circuits; it protects growing fruit from sand, preserves meat in shipping; it has become the universal wrapping paper, and makes the gas cells in dirigibles gas proof.

While this revolutionary wrapper delivers countless commodities cleaner and fresher to the consumer, its greatest boon to society is its use in opening up new markets. Fresh fish can be shipped longer distances, meat can be cut for the consumer at the packing plant and fruit, candy, vegetables and baked goods are delivered in better condition wrapped in this remarkable by-product of spruce pulp.

A LONG TIME LEARNING.

Modern civilization is co-operative. That is a good thing to remember when reading the pessimistic statements in a lot of reading matter that is being tossed about.

Wherever exists a beautiful building or a big factory or a fine, smooth road, there is evidence that a lot of men who could think and plan and a lot of men who could work, all have been helping each other. Such structures and achievements mean co-operation of the highest and finest type.

The ideal of good business is that every man shall have the chance to help in the way he best can. The inventor is a useful man, but some of the best inventors have been poor men. They could not make the things they dreamed of until other men came to their aid. But the men who had money could not bring out the inventor's idea without the aid of the men who were willing to do ordinary day's work. All three would be at a standstill unless they were willing to help each other.

Some figures were issued recently about three of the largest concerns in the United States. Together they had over 200,000 stockholders. That meant that all those people had put their savings to do business together and had contributed almost $4,000,000, which was called the total capital. The business gave employment to almost 500,000 workers. Probably more than 2,500,000 workers thus were supported and the wages that they drew

THE "ECONOMISTS"

The depression has been little short of a godsend to one division of our people—happily not a large one, but possessing a certain importance, in the eyes of many. This division consists of those who comment on economic affairs, and are paid for so doing.

You recall—or don't you?—how all these boys, in the first half of 1929, warned the people that unless they stopped fooling with Wall Street they were likely to get their fingers burned? You remember they said that we had gone in too heavily for facilities of production and were turning out customers' goods at a rate too rapid for the world to absorb them. You call to mind how they advocate conservatism, and going a bit more slowly, and not throwing money around so easily. You remember all those things, don't you? Then your memory is failing.

But perhaps you do remember that many of them said the present was not to be judged by the past; that a new era had dawned, for which past experience was not valid; that the price of stocks was soon to be justified by magnificently increased earnings; that America was about to show the world something quite new in standards of living, based on enormous wages and easy profits, because Americans knew so much more than other people and possessed the secrets of the universe, which they had discovered by their industry and their innate worth. Oh, you do remember that?

Well, the same boys are now telling us not only what caused the depression, and how it might all have been foreseen and provided against, but they are passing out a long series of remedies in the shape of amounted to almost $750,000,000 a year.

Those are the figures concerning the people immediately concerned in these big business interests. But because of these concerns, millions of other people also had jobs and earned money. And by what they were able to achieve, millions upon millions of persons, not only in this country but all over the world, were able to make a living and enjoy comforts and luxuries.

The world was a long time learning the way to play the game, but the great mass of humanity had little property, little leisure, hardly any liberty until the method of co-operation was adopted. There is much in the world, but that exists merely where the ideals of the system have not been observed.

IDLE CAPITAL

When the federal government was able recently to borrow on discount bills $51,200,000 at the lowest interest rate on record, it was congratulated as though buying the labor of money at such low wages were an unmixed blessing. It is not, for when money is willing to work for such low wages it means that capital is idle and, as a consequence, the government is not drawing revenue from the fruits of that capital.

The government is now able to borrow for 90 days at an interest rate of .49 of one per cent, but it would be ahead financially if the vast amount of idle capital which makes such low interest possible were at work producing taxable wealth. This is especially true of short-term borrowing, for on long-term loans the government will be paying depression interest rates long after prosperity has returned to put other capital to work earning revenue in the form of taxes. In such cases the borrower takes advantage of temporary conditions to secure enduring advantage.

Although the cheapness of capital is a great help to the government forced to borrow to tide over a deficit period and strengthens confidence in the government's credit, the United States treasury will welcome the return of high wages for money. It is better not to have to borrow at all than to borrow at low interest.

five year plans, 10 year plans, government control of everything, and other panaceas—and what magazine is not paying for at least one of these plans per month? They make interesting reading, especially to the head of factory who has his overhead to the bone, improved his product, approved a sound advertising campaign and told his salesman that a small profit is better than no business. This gentleman reads the advice of the experts and wonders if the country has gone loony. It hasn't, but it must have something to grin about.

Even though Corsicana is not in the midst of an oil boom at this time the city boasts of a fresh water supply unexcelled—which is worth considerably more to the health and happiness of the citizenship than all the oil in the world.

In view of the postoffice deficit it would seem to be the patriotic duty of every citizen to wear a vest with a dollar's worth of stamps in the pocket these sweltering days.

Money is so close and yet so far.

LOSIS.

The past year, whatever its unsatisfactory features, has this to its credit: It furnished the lowest death rate from pulmonary tuberculosis ever recorded.

Many factors are mentioned as contributing to this victory over a dreadful disease. Improvement in conditions affecting the factory workers, particularly in the construction of buildings to afford fresh air and light; better nutrition; shorter working hours preventing excessive fatigue; better factory sanitation, and introduction of means of removing factory dust, have had important bearing in solving the problem.

Public health regulations governing meat inspection, housing reform and general sanitation are credited with large influence in checking tuberculosis. And particularly is mentioned the concerted effort to stamp out bovine tuberculosis which has resulted in a safe milk supply.

Such progress indicates the approach of the time when tuberculosis will be as nearly subdued as is smallpox.

BE BRIEF.

The world is in a hurry: please be brief.

Poor terminal facilities for authors and speakers often nullify all their excellent wisdom. A man may possess all kinds of useful knowledge, but fail in "discerning when to have done."

Brevity is the touchstone of success in any field. You may offend your customer, your reader or your hearer in one respect and please him in another. But if you tire him with your tediousness, you lose him altogether.

The newspaper leads the style today in pith and cogency and has educated the public to the expectation of receiving much in little. The well-executed cartoon will impart a whole philosophy of life at a glance, or provide silent comment on current events worth a column of words.

Brevity is the soul of wit. Yet they who have wit, or think they have, are in especial danger of saying too much. Some one has said: "It is better to say nothing and be thought a fool than to open the mouth and dispel all doubt."

Most relatives are distant relatives when you are broke.

Money talks, but not as much as man talks money.

SYSTEMATIC METHOD RIDDING CORSICANA OF RATS OUTLINED

RODENT EXPERT ESTIMATES ANNUAL LOSS TO CORSICANA IS $30,000

Systematic methods of ridding cities of rats were told interested persons Friday morning in the chamber of commerce directors' room by C. D. Schwartz, of the United States biological survey (federal rat control division). Mr. Schwartz presented a plan applicable to exterminate rats in Corsicana, and keen interest was taken by those present, but no official steps were taken to secure the service offered by Mr. Schwartz's department.

The rodent expert first outlined briefly the history of the organization of rat eradication, and said it first sprung into being in South Carolina. He pointed out that from extensive experiments a systematic campaign has developed, which when used in a city every four months rats are practically obliterated.

Corsicana Loss Heavy
 Mr. Schwartz gave extensive information concerning the habits of rats, and the damage they do when unmolested. He estimated that they do $2 per capita damage in Corsicana or $30,000 conservatively estimated. Materially and untold damage by spreading diseases. In this connection the expert showed that rats are able to carry every known disease except malaria. He further declared the origin of recent typhus fever epidemics in Longview, Marshall and Dallas, has been traced directly to rodents.

Outlining the process followed in the organized campaign to eradicate rodents, Mr. Schwartz said that about $300 worth of poison (red squill) would be sufficient to rid this city of the undesirable rodents. The city is pre-baited with various kinds of baits, to see which kind the rats in various sections and buildings like, and also to ally the rats' suspicions. The poisoned bait is then placed in the buildings, by square city block units. After the majority of rats are killed a survey is taken, and other kinds of poison are used to eradicate the few remaining rats. The process is repeated three times a year, for one year, and then the biological survey division will continue the process in succeeding years if it is desired by the citizens.

Mr. Schwartz estimated that $25 worth of property will be saved for each $1 worth of poison put out.

A roundtable discussion ensued, and ways and means of securing money to finance the work were taken up, but no official action was taken.

GOOD PROGRESS IS BEING MADE POURING CONCRETE ON ROAD

Good progress is reported by the McElwath Construction company in the pouring of the 20-foot concrete pavement on national highway No. 22, between Corsicana and Rice.

Pouring of this slab started Wednesday when 620 lineal feet were poured while 1,000 feet were made Thursday.

Headquarters for the crew on this section of the highway is maintained at Carl Switch, and as soon as the pavement is completed to that point, the pouring of the slab will be moved to a point just north of Corsicana and will proceed northward to Carl Switch. After the southern portion of the road is completed, the pavement northward will be started.

It was reported that another paving outfit will be transferred from Freestone county to the Ellis county sector by the company next week. The local concern has the contract for the 20-foot pavement from a point north of Corsicana to Ennis in Ellis county. The McElwath Construction company also has the contract for the 15-foot pavement of highway 22 from a point near the Three-Way filling station to the eastern boundary line of consolidated road district No. 1 east of Eureka, but no definite time has been announced as to when the pavement will start.

Good progress is also being made on the dirt and drainage structures on the Corsicana-Ward bridge lateral road project, near the Magnolia pump station south of Corsicana to Ward bridge spanning Richland creek and connecting with the pavement of the Pursey district. The Ward bridge work is being done by a Waco contracting firm.

CORSICANA MEN SEVERELY HURT IN CAR ACCIDENT

A. A. Allison suffered a severe head injury and John Fortson a twisted back Thursday night at 9 o'clock near Axel when the truck in which they were riding struck a rough hole in the highway. Joe E. Fortson, Sr., and Joe B. Fortson, Jr., also occupants of the car escaped serious injury.

The party was returning from Austin when the accident occurred. Mr. Allison and Mr. John Fortson were thrown violently against the top of the car.

The party continued the journey to Corsicana, where medical attention was given. Several stitches were taken in the wound in Mr. Allison's head. The extent of Mr. Fortson's back injury has not been fully determined.

NEW MILDRED HIGH SCHOOL BE MODERN EDUCATIONAL UNIT

Bids for the new $28,000 Mildred rural high school district No. 15 high school building will be opened at 10 a. m. August 4. It was announced Monday by the board of trustees, who, together with M. T. Horn, is preparing the plans. The school will be located on the main highway entering Mildred, facing south, with the corner at the Cert farm. It is being designed strictly as a modern high school building, and when completed will embody the latest equipment and conveniences, including steam heating and electric lighting.

The building will be a two-story brick structure, with steel reinforced concrete foundation. A large basement will house all the steam heating and other mechanical equipment. It will be 90 feet by 65 feet. The exterior finish will be of light gray face brick trimmed with congenial stone, and the interior will have wood floors, and plastered walls and ceilings. In addition to four class rooms, the building will house a gymnasium, a room for vocational courses, including agriculture, business administration, general science, sewing with a fitting room adjoining, cooking room with completely equipped dining room and pantry units adjoining; a clinic and a large study hall with adjoining library and bookroom. There will be separate rest rooms for male and female students, in addition to necessary toilets, and shower rooms for both boys and girls.

M. H. Wright is president of the Mildred rural high school district No. 15, and L. B. Bonner is secretary.

Plans will be ready in the next few days, Mr. Blanding said, and bids will soon be advertised for.

COURTHOUSE NEWS.

District Court.
 A jury in the thirteenth judicial district court Thursday afternoon returned a verdict of guilty against Doyle Nash, indicted for alleged grand larceny, his punishment at two years in the penitentiary. The jury had deliberated only a short time.

Nash was tried on an indictment for alleged grand larceny, a house belonging to J. McAdams, 805 West Eleventh Avenue, July 7, this year. The trial started Tuesday and the arguments of the attorneys were completed about 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Notice of appeal as given by defense attorneys. It is expected that a formal motion for a new trial will be filed by the defendant within the next few days. Bonds in the sum of $750 each in two cases were ordered forfeited against L. G. Gartman as principal and his sureties Friday morning. Judge Scarbrough, probate district judge. These two cases were indictments for the alleged violation of the prohibition laws. A physician's certificate from O'Connell was presented by defense attorney, Norris Lovett, that the defendant was unable to be in court. The state through Cleo G. Miller, county attorney, had previously announced readiness. The cases were passed Monday when the physician's certificate from Houston was introduced.

Edgar Reams, charged by indictment with the alleged violation of the prohibition laws, was on trial in the district court Friday afternoon.

Bond in the sum of $1,000 was ordered forfeited against C. E. Norland, Dallas, Texas, for alleged violation of the prohibition laws, when his case was called for trial.

Sheriff's Office.

Considerable difficulty in placing a man in the county jail was experienced by deputy sheriffs late Thursday in connection with the seizure of five gallons and fifty-five bottles of beer in North Corsicana. It was reported Friday morning. The white man was said to weigh 230 pounds and was well over six-feet tall. The man later was released on bond in the sum of $500. The complaint for alleged violation of the prohibition laws to wait the action of the Navarro county grand jury. Deputy sheriffs J. M. Westbrook, Clyde Wilkes and Walter Hayes were in the room when the complaint was filed.

Sheriff Pevehouse said Friday that considerable difficulty was experienced with the prisoner and that the officers were resisted, but that no complaint for resisting arrest would be filed.

X-ALL HIGHWAY ASSOCIATION WAS FORMED AT MEXIA

W. S. BARRON OF BRYAN PRESIDENT AND LOWRY MARTIN VICE PRESIDENT

MEXIA, July 24.—With W. S. Barron of Bryan, former Speaker of the Texas house of representatives, as president, an X-All Highway Association was formed here Thursday afternoon when representatives of a score of towns along the Dallas-Houston route met on call of the Mexia Daily News.

Lowry Martin of Corsicana was named vice president, Jake Stubbs of Mexia, secretary, and W. H. Bryant of Wortham, treasurer. A director from each town along the route is to be named by President Barron later.

A resolution adopted stated the purpose of the association to render maximum service through the organization as the co-operative medium to secure aid for the development of the highway's completion and use.

It was recommended and urged that all departments of government and commercial organizations co-operate in carrying out the purpose of the organization. A federal number will be sought for the road, now known as State Highway No. 14, Dallas to Bremond, and No. 6 from there to Mexia. For three months there will be monthly meetings and thereafter quarterly.

T. B. Warden of Houston was designated as highway engineer of the association. A meeting of county delegations with the highway department next week will be sought.

The meeting was called to order by P. H. Broiles, editor of the Mexia Daily News, and Lowry Martin of Corsicana presided as temporary chairman during the organization. Delegations were present from Bryan, Hearne, Calvert, Kosse, Thornton, Groesbeck, Wortham and Corsicana in addition to Mexia and other points in this vicinity.

Letters and telegrams from Dallas and Navasota indicated support of the organization from these points.

The committee representing the Corsicana Chamber of Commerce at this meeting were Lowry Martin, Ben Blackman, S. J. Thigpen, W. O. Earwell.

Following is the full text of the resolutions adopted:

Be It Resolved: By the Exall Highway Association as follows, to-wit:

First, that it shall hereafter be known as the Exall Highway Association, and that the route of the Exall highway shall begin at Dallas and extend to Houston, Texas, including all of the State highways Nos. 14 and 6.

Second, that the purpose of the Exall Highway Association is:

(a) The improvement in every respect of the highway, of its entire length with a view of offering present traffic and attracting as much new traffic over said highway as is possible.

(b) To develop said highway that it will render the maximum service to the various communities through which it passes.

(c) To use the Exall Highway Association as a medium by which all communities interested may co-operate to accomplish the above purposes.

Third, we recommend to and urge that all departments of our government, district, county, state and federal, to consider the possibilities to this section of the state and in the nation in general, of a full development of the Exall highway, and we call on all commercial organizations of every community along the route of said highway to diligently co-operate with this organization in carrying out an immediate program of development.

Fourth, that the officers of this organization be instructed to make application at the next meeting of the state highway commission for the Exall highway to be given a federal number.

Fifth, that the organization meet monthly, the first of each month, and quarterly thereafter at a point to be designated by the president.

Sixth, that the president appoint a finance committee to work out a system of financing the activities of the organization and report same to the next meeting.

The above resolutions were adopted by unanimous vote.

HOUSTON-BEAUMONT BATTLE FIFTEEN INNINGS TO DEADLOCK SUNDAY

BOTH TEAMS SCORE IN FINAL FRAME TO PREVENT DECISION

DALLAS STAGES RALLY TO NOSE OUT FORT WORTH SECOND DAY

BY BILL PARKER
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)
Mark down another deadlock for Houston and Beaumont. Finishing in a tie for the first half championship after eighty long, hot games, the Buffaloes and Exporters opened their first half play-off series Saturday with Houston winning 3 to 2 but in the second of the five-game saw-off series played in Beaumont, these two teams battled fifteen innings to a 4 to 4 tie. Both scored twice in the 15th inning, and the game was called on account of darkness. The third game is scheduled tonight in Houston.

Opening pitchers in the second game were Carleton for Houston and Wyatt for Beaumont, but neither finished. Jerome "Dizzy" Dean who beat the Exporters in the first game, relieved Carleton in the seventh and pitched seven innings. Buck Marrow relieved Wyatt. The Buffaloes got away to a two run lead when they scored in the fourth and again in the sixth. The Exporters came back to score in the seventh and back to tie the count. The next six innings were gruelling, unless baseball with both clubs bearing down consistently.

The Buffaloes opened the 15th with two runs, giving them what looked like a sure victory, and the second game of the series, but Del Baker's hustling Exporters refused to fade out as many anticipated, and instead fought back to score a pair of runs in their half of the 15th which was climaxed by a sensational steal home for the tying run by Wyatt. White, Beaumont's poolie outfielder and the Texas leading base stealer. When he slid home safe to give the fans their biggest thrill of the long battle, it made his 38th stolen base this season.

Dean Back Again.
During the eight innings he worked "Dizzy" Dean let the Exporters down with three hits and two runs, and struck out six. Marrow also turned in some commendable relief hurling, and allowed four hits and two runs in seven innings. Dean, however, showed the effect of pitching two consecutive days by walking six which constantly kept him in trouble.

Hock was one of a trio stars of the game with a trio of singles among Houston's 9 hits. Medwick, Houston centerfielder, had a home run. Schubele got three of Beaumont's hits.

The Dallas Steers, the most dangerous team in the league for second half honors, beat the Fort Worth Cats for the second consecutive time. The score was 3 to 2, and it allowed the Steers to move firmly to the top of the league in second place.

Steers Defeat Cats.
Manager Hap Morse's Steers had to forge to the front with a run in the ninth inning after tying the score at 3-all in the eighth. Leo Cotter opened Dallas' half of the ninth with a double, moved to third on Loopp's sacrifice, and scored on Cotter's hit. The Steers tied the count in the eighth when Benes singled and reached second on Holman's sacrifice. Benes then scored on Langford's hit. The timely hit enabled Langford to run his consecutive hitting streak to 19 games. Dick Whitworth went the route for Fort Worth, allowing 12 hits. It was his ninth defeat this season. Lefty Minogue started for Dallas but was relieved by Hansen in the seventh. Hansen, a Fort Worth cast-off, got credit for the win.

At Wichita Falls, the Splitts and Shreveport. The Sports last the first 11 to 7, but won the nightcap in the ninth inning 5 to 4 when Whelan singled and Radcliff doubled for the winning run. Hobbs Carson of San Antonio turned in his 13th victory of the year Sunday by beating alveston 5 to 2. alveston collected eight scattered hits, one more than the Indians got off Thormaehlen.

Mildred Rural High School Will Not Be Represented on Grid

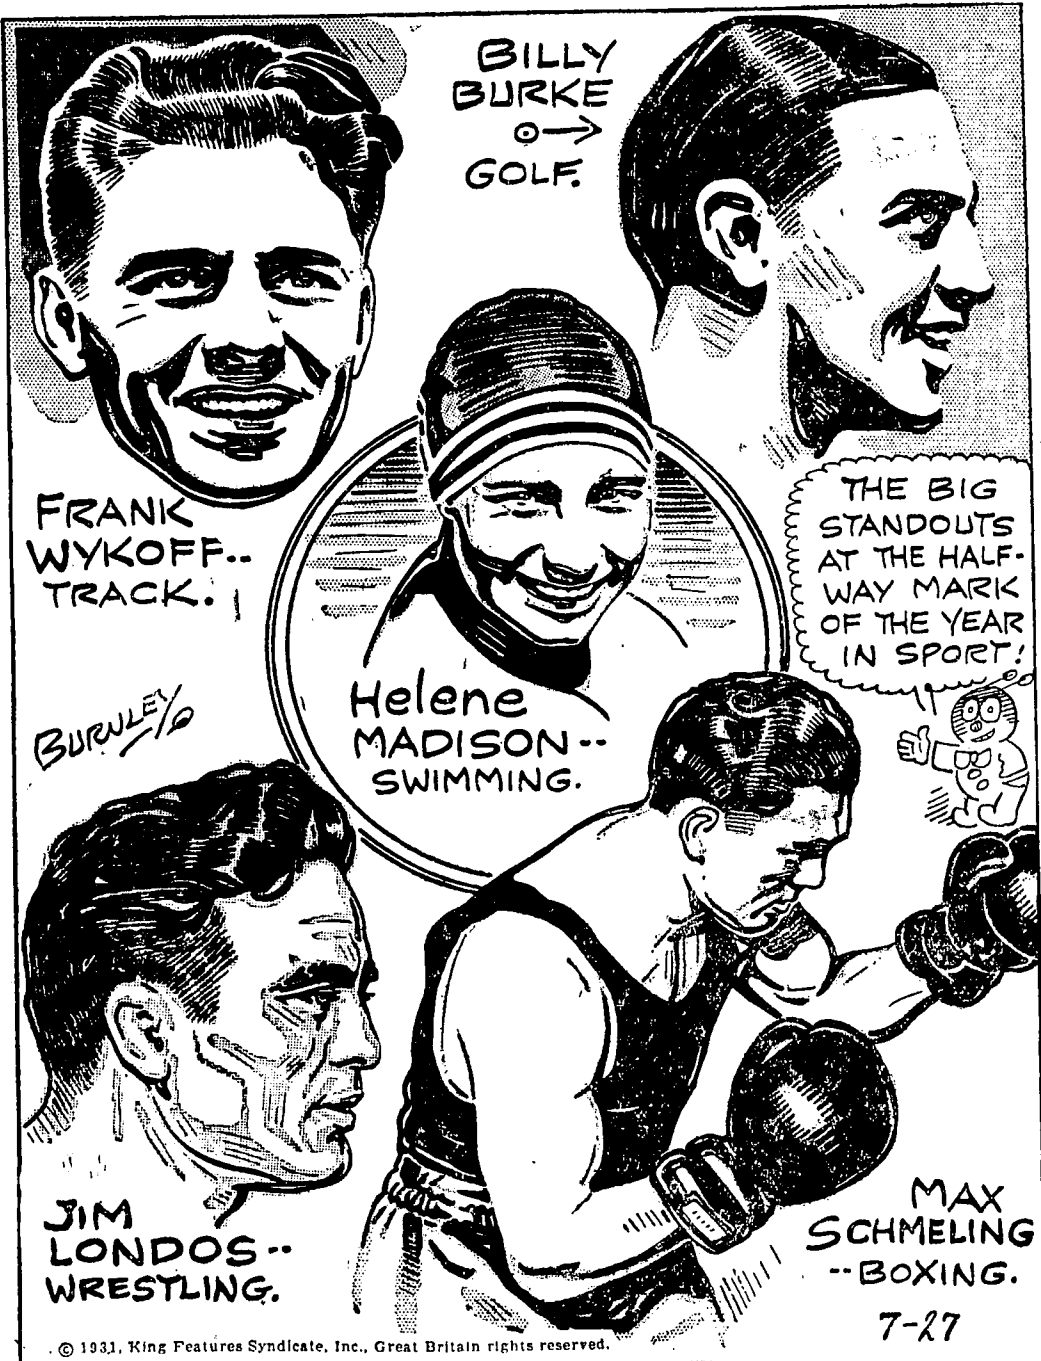

Mildred rural high school will not have a football team this fall as originally planned, but probably will next year.
Several hundred dollars would have been necessary for the purchasing of complete uniforms and other equipment to start from the ground up in the putting of a grid machine in the field.
This announcement will be a disappointment to scores of boys in that community and district who had been planning to play football this fall.

Tommy Younger, former captain of the Corsicana high Tigers and star with the Centenary College Gentlemen of Shreveport, will be principal of this school, and had intended to coach the football team.

RUTH'S HOME RUN DECIDED PITCHERS' DUEL HERE SUNDAY

MAGNOLIA OILERS DEFEATED MONTFORT CLUB AT MUNICIPAL PARK, 1-0

Magnolia Oilers, local club, defeated the strong Montfort nine at Municipal Park Sunday afternoon in a thriller when Ruth, Magnolia's short stop, hit a home run in the last of the eighth inning to win 1-0. This was the only hit allowed, by Warren, Montfort pitcher while Montfort was gathering eight blows off Robinson, four of which rattled the fence, but in the pinches Robinson and his mates were effective.

Sands, H. McClanahan and D. Tyner connected with two safeties each.

It is expected that another game will be arranged between these two evenly-matched clubs within the near future.

HORTON SMITH IS WINNER OF ST. PAUL OPEN CHAMPIONSHIP

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 27.—(AP)—Horton Smith's long, weary golfing depression is over.

After almost a year and a half of futile campaigning, the ever-while "Joplin Ghost" finally overtook his notorious jinx yesterday by winning the $10,000 St. Paul open championship on the tide of a record, par-shattering score of 278 strokes for the 72-hole jaunt for gold and fame over the Keler club layout.

The brilliant score which he carded with rounds of 69-69-67-73, carried him ahead of the brilliant field of par-smashers and gave him the first prize of $2,500 by three shots over the defending champion and runner-up, "Light-horse Harry" Cooper of Chicago. There wasn't a happier fellow in the world of golf today than Smith. As soon as he pocketed his big money prize, he grinned broadly and remarked:

"Well, I guess I finally routed my jinx. I doubt if any one ever felt like I did during this depression."

It was Smith's first golfing conquest since the Orlando, Fla., open in the winter of 1930. When he captured that one, he was the "wonder boy" of professional golf, having galloped away with 13 championships during his winter campaign to jump from the ranks of the "also run" golfers to the biggest money winner of American golf. But the jinx caught him there and held him in its clutch until he capped his stirring comeback yesterday.

School Officials Planning to Make Improvements Tiger Field

School officials and members of the high school athletic council are making plans for extensive changes and improvements at Tiger Field within the immediate future, unless the proposed work is stopped by legal action.

The school board owns the property on which Tiger Field is now located and also the immediate vicinity south and several lots on an adjoining block.

It is proposed, Beauford H. Jester, president of the high school athletic council, points out, to change the present location of Thirty-third street, which dead-ends into Fifth avenue south of the present field, to the east and the school property about 50 feet west of the present street, and also to divert West Fifth avenue.

Just south of Tiger Field, an open street, on school property to West Fourth avenue.

The present location on the map of Thirty-third street is closed and has been for years.

It is pointed out that as much street feet will be available in that section as at the present time.

One property owner has said legal action would be brought should such a procedure be started. The city commission in its recent session started the necessary proceedings toward the changing of the routes in that vicinity.

It is pointed out that should work be started at once, the changes could be effected by the time of the starting of the 1931 football season as a good turf is already available.

Changes include the turning of the gridiron around and making it run north and south instead of east and west as it does at the present time.

The western boundary of Tiger Field and the other property there is also the western city limits of Corsicana. The bleachers now on the south side of the field along

BLEACHING PASTE.

Not everybody wants to be sunburned. In fact some people cannot burn without feeling the most acute discomfort; they have sensitive skins which do not protect themselves by tanning. For these and for the girl whose skin has become too brown, I have the following suggestions.

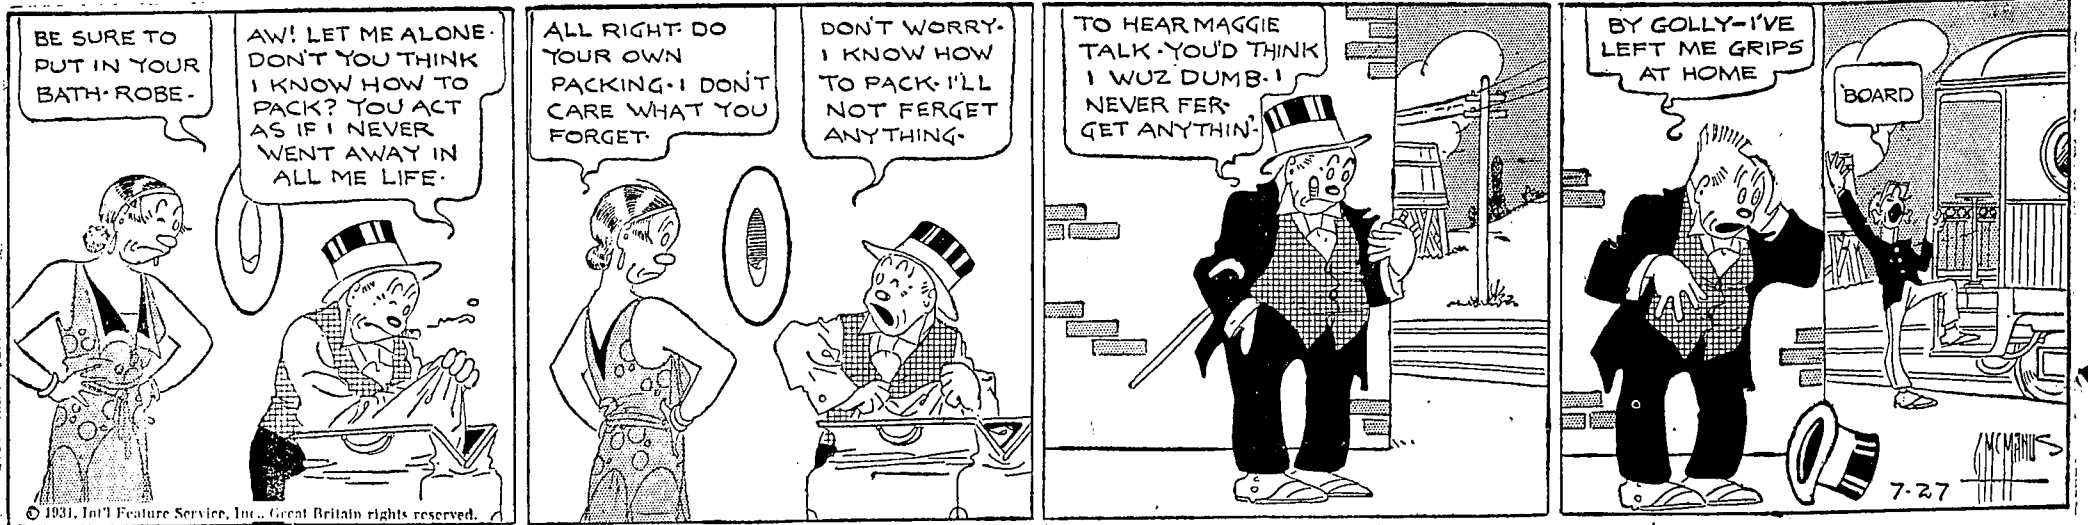

This Does Away With Sunburn

is the cheapest bleach and is very hard to improve upon.

An excellent soothing paste which will make the pores fine and will also bleach sunburn is made from laundry starch dissolved in cold water. This is rubbed over the skin and allowed to stay on for half an hour, then rinsed off. Anyone who has a Southern grand mother or great-grandmother, knows the value of this. Another bleaching paste is made of sour milk and corn meal. Unfortunately this is difficult to use on the face, although of course, it can be done, but it is marvellous to use on the arms and hands.

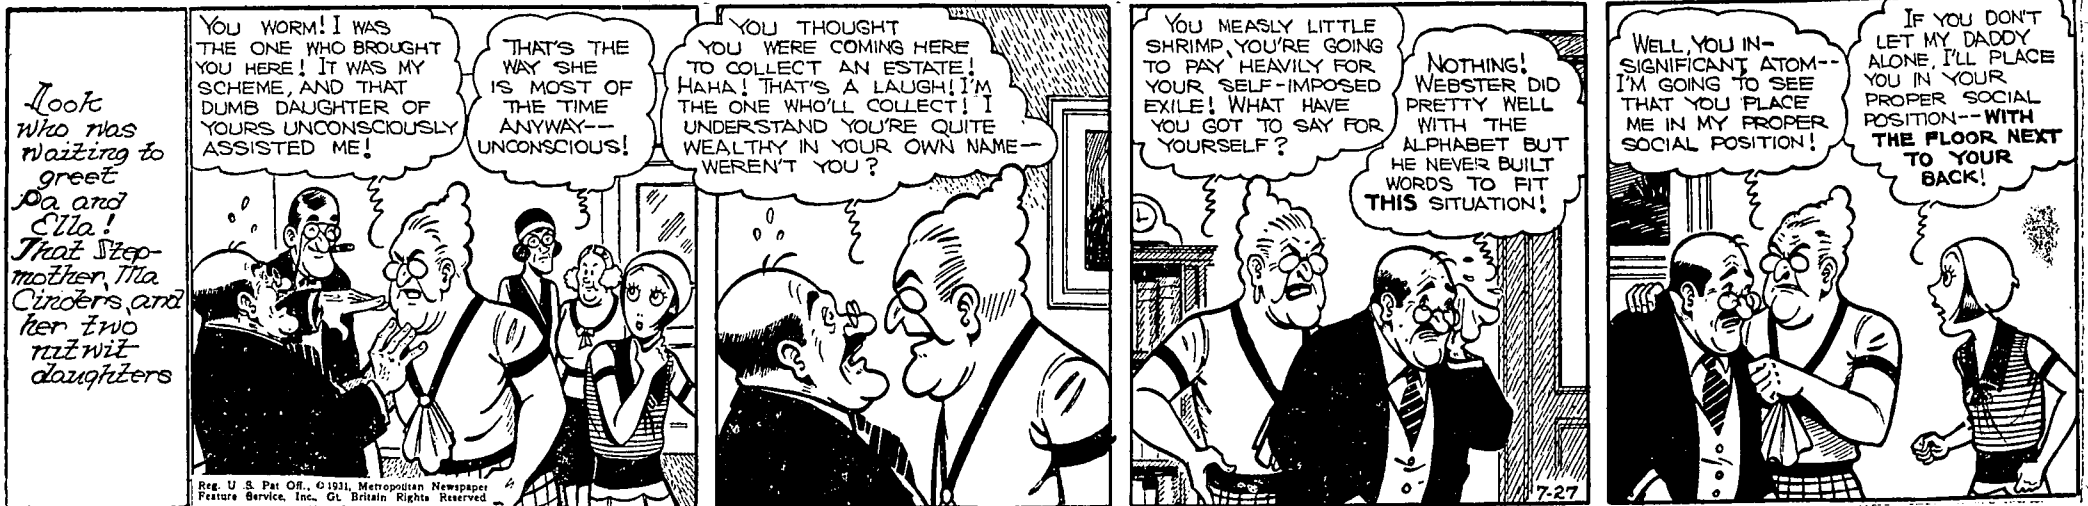

Whatever you use on your skin, wash off by bedtime. It is a very bad thing to have the skin stuck up with ointments and creams, or with anything that might clog the pores and cause irritation. The witch hazel and glycerine does not matter, it is sticky pastes and creams which cause the trouble. Ointments can be used over wrinkles, otherwise as far as possible the pores of the skin should be left clear and free to breathe during the hot weather. Starch paste

SECURING GREATEST GOOD FROM BIG FEED CROP IS OUTLINED

FARMERS AND OTHERS ARE GIVEN VALUABLE INFORMATION ON FEEDING

An unusually heavy oat crop and low prices have brought a large number of inquiries to County Agent Calvin Pigg for information as to how the feed crop might be best utilized for various classes of livestock. The following suggestions have been made by the county agent after careful investigation.

Oats when ground is one of the best grain feeders when the pastures are rather dry, and are supplemented by such rough feeds as grass hays and fodders, a higher protein content in the grain mixture will be required, and is obtained by using more cottonseed meal, use same ration as above but use 100 pounds of cottonseed meal.

If by any chance the farmer has more corn or grain sorghum than he has oats, the amounts may be reversed, using 200 pounds of corn or grain sorghum and 100 pounds of ground oats in the above ration. This change in the mixture only affects one per cent change in the amount of protein in the mixture.

If the feeder has plenty of alfalfa hay, he will do well feeding a simple mixture of 200 pounds of ground oats, 100 pounds of corn grain sorghum.

Without the purchase of any high protein feed, the protein in the cotton seed meal being supplemented by the protein in the legume hays.

Oats for Hogs
Oats are an excellent grain to be fed to gilts, young boars, and all mature breeding stock. Oats can also constitute a part of the grain fed to young pigs and fattening hogs, but due to the high fiber content they should never be fed in excess of one-half the grain allowance. Much better results will be obtained if pigs are fed one-third oats and two-thirds of the more concentrated grains like corn, wheat or barley.

In experiments where oats formed the only grain in the ration for fattening pigs, oats were worth only 50 per cent as much as corn and 75 per cent as much as barley.

For best results, oats should be ground into a coarse meal.

For breeding gilts, pregnant sows, and boars on pasture: 94 pounds ground oats; 3 pounds tankage, 60 per cent protein; 3 pounds cottonseed meal, 43 per cent protein.

For breeding gilts, pregnant sows, and boars when no pasture is available: 92 pounds ground oats; 4 pounds tankage, 69 per cent protein; 4 pounds cottonseed meal, 43 per cent protein.

For pigs and fattening hogs: 30 pounds ground oats; 60 pounds ground corn, wheat or barley; 5 pounds tankage, 60 per cent protein; 5 pounds cottonseed meal, 43 per cent protein.

The home and furniture were almost completely destroyed, with partial insurance coverage.

Capone Not to Fly Leavenworth Prison

CHICAGO, July 2.—(P)—Alphonse Capone's day of reckoning with the government is close at hand.

There has been considerable conjecture as to what length of term he comes before Federal Judge Wilkerson on Thursday of this week, but one thing appeared certain and that was that he won't fly in an airplane to the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kans.

United States Marshal E. C. W. Laubenthal said the government had rejected an offer from an airways company to transport all prisoners to Leavenworth by plane, beginning with Capone.

Capone is to be sentenced to his place of guilty to charges of violating the income tax law and for conspiracy to break the prohibition act. Meanwhile he has been enjoying a final spurge of freedom at Bern Harbor, Mich.

COMMITTEES NAMED FOR YOUNG PEOPLE S. S. DEPARTMENT

Sunday morning the following committees were appointed by the Young People's Department of the First Methodist church:

Reception—Maurice Keathley, Lottie Lee, Iako, Elizabeth Love, Camille Hardison.

Program—Mrs. L. A. Wortham, Roy Peoples, Josephine Huffman, Geline Castles.

Recreational—Fay Ashmore, Letha Dell Morehead, Chas. Keathley, Mrs. Kirk Steel, Financier, N. Royall, Jr., Elizabeth Haley, George Ruth, Elizabeth, Mae Marnaby.

Missionary—Mrs. R. K. Blackshear, Rosalee Simmons, Mary Alice Parker, Ina Spruill, Collie M. Ashworth.

Social Service—Mrs. Geo. E. Jester, Allie Chambliss, Mrs. E. M. Keathley, Donald Marr.

A goal of 100 members has been set for Thanksgiving Day or before. With the co-operation of the above committees this goal will be easily reached. A number of social gatherings have been planned for the department, one each two weeks, with the next one to be Thursday of this week.

This will be a watermelon feast. J. E. Metcalf, Jr. is chairman of transportation, with Maurice Keathley as chairman of refreshments. Each and every member of the department is expected to be present and to bring their sweethearts or friends. All will meet at the First Methodist church at 7 p. m. and go to a place selected for the feast. A place was announced Sunday but a conflict with another organization requires that another place be selected. The place will be announced in the next day or two.

CARD OF THANKS.
We take this method of thanking our friends for the many kindnesses shown us in the hour of our bereavement in the loss of our beloved son and brother. We also wish to express our appreciation for the beautiful floral offerings. May God bless each and every one of our prayers.

FAREWELL SERMON DELIVERED SUNDAY BY J. H. WILLIAMS

"My Farewell Wish" was the subject of Pastor J. Howard Williams Sunday morning at the First Baptist church. Mr. Williams will leave the pastorate Aug. 1 to accept the post of executive secretary of the Baptist General Convention of Texas. In his last sermon to the church, the pastor read the scripture passage Philippians 4:1-7, and used as his text Roman 10:1, "Brethren, my heart's desire and prayer to God for Israel is, that they might be saved."

With brief mention of more than five years' labor in which he has participated with the church, Mr. Williams passed to a four-fold wish to the individuals of the church may have material properly, spiritual experience, that is, true conversion, growth in grace, and adequate comprehension of and participation in Christian service. For the church he expressed the wish that it be right in its doctrinal position, especially with reference to the fact of God, the deity of Christ, the reality and work of the Holy Spirit, the inspiration of the scriptures, the fact and consequences of sin, the fulness of salvation in and through Christ, human responsibility for the coming of Christ, the judgment, and the facts of heaven and hell.

"Let this church," said the speaker, "be mindful of its local obligations, to evangelize personally for its own, to be mindful of others, and also of its wider field." The church he described as God's agent for carrying this message of the teaching of God's word, not to dominate men or nations but to permeate them with the gospel. The local church he characterized as the "world's most important institution."

The evening sermon of Pastor Williams was on "A Man Approved of God." A unique fact concerning this last sermon is that it was also delivered by Mr. Williams as his first sermon in the Corsicana church. At the close of last evening's service the ordinance of baptism was administered to several candidates. During the day six persons were received into the church, five for baptism.

Music which contributed to the worship was rendered by the chorus choir, under the direction of C. C. McClung, with organ accompaniment by Mrs. S. K. Brizet. A violin quartette led by Mrs. J. K. Wood with Maurile Henderson, Valvie Lou Cheney, and Frances Kelley as other members, assisted in the morning service.

A mixed quartette composed of Mrs. B. M. Henderson, Mrs. Roy Bristow, Fred White, and M. A. Surgen, gave a special selection, "The City Four-Square," in the evening.

Sunday school attendance showed a slight decrease from last Sunday with 555 present. B. Y. P. U. attendance was 153. In the general assembly of the latter, Miss Emma McConico gave a talk on "How We May Let Our Light Shine," with a lighted model of a lighthouse serving as an object lesson. A duet by Miss Virginia Roberts and Miss Alleen Cheney, entitled, "The Light of the World Is Jesus," closed this part of the service.

An announcement was made that the Wednesday evening prayer and praise service will be the last service of Mr. Williams as pastor of the church.

Immediately following this service, which is advanced to 7:30 p. m. instead of the usual time of 8:00 o'clock, an informal reception will be given by the church in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Williams and their family. All friends in the city are invited to attend, it is stated.

Five Negroes Held After Cash and Golf Balls Are Missing
Five negro boys, caddies at the Corsicana country club, were arrested by City Detectives Tickle and Griffin Sunday after Z. L. Howell, manager of the club, had discovered the loss of about three dozen golf balls and about $5 in cash missing from the cash register at the club. The boys were later transferred to the county authorities.

pastor of the local church. ## Teague Water Is Rated Much Purer Than Formerly TEAGUE, July 27.—(Spl.)—According to the latest reports from the state department of health the water situation in Teague is considerably improved from what it was a week ago. A report received this week by the city administration office indicated that there is absolutely no contamination in water coming from the upper railroad lake west of the city, and that it is good drinking water.

The city is at the present time using water from the railroad storage lakes. Arrangements are temporary only. Permanent arrangements for an adequate supply of water for the city of Teague is a serious question now facing city authorities.

SHAW FRATERNIZES WITH SOVIETS AND WANTS EMULATION

MOSCOW, July 27.—(P)—When George Bernard Shaw came here to see how Russia was getting along under the Soviet, he thought things were so bad he'd have to live in a tent.

To be prepared, he brought one along with him. Moreover, he had food, bedding and pillows in his duffle.

Shaw told about it—as a joke on himself—in a speech last night in the concert hall of Columns, attended by workers, writers and educators who were helping him to celebrate his 75th birthday.

"We were told there was no food or other necessities in Russia," said G. B. S. "After we crossed the border we found our equipment unnecessary, and we began throwing it away."

Shaw addressed his hearers as "Comrades" and told them that when they had succeeded in their Communist revolution the other nations would follow fast in their footsteps.

"As an old Socialist," he said, "I saw on the faces of his audience a new look which one does not find in the west, but which I hope to see there."

Five Negroes Held After Cash and Golf Balls Are Missing
Five negro boys, caddies at the Corsicana country club, were arrested by City Detectives Tickle and Griffin Sunday after Z. L. Howell, manager of the club, had discovered the loss of about three dozen golf balls and about $5 in cash missing from the cash register at the club. The boys were later transferred to the county authorities.

pastor of the local church. Immediately following this service, which is advanced to 7:30 p. m. instead of the usual time of 8:00 o'clock, an informal reception will be given by the church in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Williams and their family. All friends in the city are invited to attend, it is stated.

Announcement was made that the Wednesday evening prayer and praise service will be the last service of Mr. Williams as pastor of the church.

SOIL AERATION GIVES RESULTS IN GROWING OF LAWNS

By R. C. MORRISON
(City Forester of Fort Worth).
(Written for Associated Press).

Before the grass starts growing in the spring, it may be advisable to aerate the soil. On golf courses this work is usually done by revolving discs attached to the mowers, but on the private lawn the use of a common spading fork serves well. Unless the lawn needs regrading, it is not necessary to turn the ground, merely to punch holes in the lawn with the fork. Afterwards the top dressing should be applied and in this way proper aeration can be secured. It is not necessary to burn the old grass, but no harm is done by doing so. It is also useless and somewhat detrimental to cut the turf by using a hoe. The turf should be left unless the grade is too high.

In case there exists old trees on the lawn which have sapped all the nourishment from the soil, and which furnish too much shade for the grass, there are several things which can be done. In case the trees are closer than 30 feet a thinning out of the trees should take place, that is, some of the trees should be removed. Next, the trees should be thinned—not topped off—to permit the sunshine to reach the ground. The trees should then be fertilized by punching holes around the base of the tree at about the edge of the branches. The lawn should then be fertilized and cared for as has been suggested—except that more water will be required than when there are no trees.

It should be remembered that even with the extra care lawns under the trees will not be as fine as lawns in the open, and it may be wise to sow Kentucky blue grass and red top. This grass has thrived in a number of cases, and

The "completely balanced" Electric Refrigerator

Read this...

before you decide that an electric refrigerator is too expensive

A WESTINGHOUSE Refrigerator is positively an ECONOMY. Let no one change your mind on that. Whether you buy the "small-family" size at $180 (f. o. b. factory) or one of the five larger models—you can actually save from $50 to $150 yearly with it—as compared to less modern equipment. Think of the health safety—the convenience—the ice cubes and frozen dainties. And only 10% down is required. Balanced may be spread over 12, 18 or 24 months if desired. See the WESTINGHOUSE. Get proof of these claims before you buy any refrigerator, electrical or otherwise.
